

PLACE WAR TOYS ON BACK SHELVES

That Tulsa Children Are Peace-Loving Shown in Pick-of Toys

Tulsa children are peace-loving. They've had enough of war and for all they care, Santa Claus might sit in the same dimensioned sofa. Military toys don't find favor with the youngsters of this city this year, as much as they have in other years. They have been supplanted by the juvenile pincushions and pruning books of peace.

The boys like the construction toys better than any other clerks in one of the Main street stores for department said yesterday. They turn from those that are already made and ready to play with to those that are but the raw material, so to speak, for the building. The world of let's pretend is always the children's world and it is so much easier to pretend to work and make into a ready-made toy.

And the girls—dear me! If the foppery of today is sophisticated, what will the young miss of tomorrow be? For these miniature editions of femininity are walking into the toy departments and sweetly asking for doll transports and a well-stocked trunk, please. They are the faithful old pals of jackets, shiny bangles and ladies' ears, enough one. It's no fun at all surprising what the little girls of Tulsa want. Little girls are just like little girls—any place else and all of them are little mothers in heart. So they all want jackets. These young things are faithfully fascinating baby dolls that make more than one baby heartache in longing. They are just about life size and they are soft and cuddly and wolly, just like a really truly baby.

But the youth of today is the man of tomorrow and perhaps the toyland Utopia of Christmas 1921, promises a war-less generation to come!

See for Wartime Debt.

ET. LOUIS, Dec. 22.—Suit for $5.65 was filed by the government today in federal court here against the American Petroleum Products Company of this city. The amount alleged to be due on freight and demurrage charges on a shipment of potatoes in March, 1919, when the railroads were under government control.

Shine the Harder.

Our observation is that pants are a much stronger friend to mankind than shoes. It's an awful job to keep shoes looking shiny but a faithful old pair of jeans shines the harder times get and the less a fellow rustles. Blessings on the bifurcated garment!

"The Christmas Spirit"

The Christmas spirit is the culmination of the good will of mankind. How nice if this spirit could be made to pervade the entire year!

At all times, and especially at this time, Traders No. 4, Brick Building, Second and Boulder, delights in seeing the spirit of goodwill permeate their business.
